Instructions for facilitators

This is a group dynamic in which up to 20 participants can take part, divided into two even teams.

The facilitator will arrange the participants in two rows to the left and right, trying to make them into even groups. Each member of each group writes a number on a piece of paper, so that if there are 8 members in each team, they will have different numbers from 1 to 8.

Tasks and procedure:

1. The facilitator will first call out a two-digit number, for example 47. The members of the two teams with 4 and 7 will have to run out and stand in front of the facilitator forming the chosen number. The team that arrives first and forms the number wins.

The facilitator repeats this dynamic, increasing the level of difficulty and the number until it becomes, if possible, 4 or 5 digits. The first team to score 5 points wins.

Conclusion and evaluation:

To conclude, we will brainstorm among participants and attendees to draw conclusions.
